Why are fire and emergency medical services (EMS) studies conducted?

Fire and EMS studies are conducted at the request of a local jurisdiction from the Virginia Fire Services Board, per Section 9.1-203.4 of the Code of Virginia.

What is the purpose of a fire and EMS study?

The purpose of a fire and EMS study is to provide an objective view of the fire and EMS services in a local jurisdiction, and to provide feedback on areas that are successful and areas that could use improvement. Additionally, a fire and EMS study provides recommendations on how to improve a local jurisdiction's fire and EMS service delivery. The intent of fire and EMS study recommendations is to provide broad recommendations for the local jurisdiction to review and customize to the benefit of the citizens, organizations and the local jurisdiction. Study recommendations should not be construed as legal advice or as a binding recommendations.

What is the fire and EMS study process?

The fire and EMS study process is initiated by a request letter from the Board of Supervisors, City Council or Town Council (i.e. governing body) of a local jurisdiction to the Virginia Fire Services Board. After approval by the Virginia Fire Services Board, the local jurisdiction will complete a self-assessment questionnaire and hold an initial teleconference with the study team. The self-assessment questionnaire and initial teleconference are used to gather background information and data on the local jurisdiction's fire and EMS service delivery, such as response maps, ordinances, budgets and incident reporting information. A site visit will be held to meet with all relevant fire and EMS organizations and entities to gain feedback and insight into the successes and areas of improvement for the local jurisdiction's fire and EMS service delivery. As part of the site visit, a Town Hall meeting will be held. After the site visit, the study team will compile their notes; complete the draft report, and then a final Fire and EMS Study Report. The local jurisdiction will be allowed to review the draft report for technical corrections only.

Once the final Fire and EMS Study Report is approved by the Virginia Fire Services Board, the study team will work with the local jurisdiction to establish and hold a meeting to present the report to the requesting governing body.

Who is on a fire and EMS study team?

The attached minutes are DRAFT minutes. While every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the information, statements and decisions recorded in them, their status will remain that of a draft until such time as they are confirmed as a correct record at the subsequent meeting.

Study teams are composed of two members of the Virginia Fire Services Board, one Division Chief and an administrative liaison from the Virginia Department of Fire 1 of 3

Commonwealth of Virginia Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) Department of Fire Programs About Fire and EMS Studies

Programs, one representative from the Virginia Office of Emergency Medical Services, and one representative from the Virginia Department of Forestry.

- How long does a fire and EMS study take? Typically, fire and EMS studies take less than six (6) months to complete, after they are approved by the Virginia Fire Services Board. A fire and EMS study could take long if there are scheduling issues for the site visit portion of the study.
- Who does the study team meet with during the Site Visit? During the site visit, the study team will meet with a variety of fire and EMS organizations or personnel. Below is an example of those that would meet with the study team:
 - o The Chief or designated representative from each fire and/or EMS organization/department;
 - o Local government officials with relevant ties to fire and/or EMS service delivery; o The 911 or Emergency communications center;
 - o The general public through the Town Hall meeting;
 - o Where appropriate, select members of the career fire and/or EMS organization/department;
 - o Where appropriate, fire and/or EMS association, commission or council members; o As deemed appropriate, members of the local governing body; and,
 - o Other representatives deemed appropriate.
- If I meet with the study team, will my name show up in the report? Meetings held with the study team are considered in anonymity, in that conversations will remain only between the representative and the study team, allowing an open and honest conversation. Additionally, names are not used in the study report to maintain the established trust that is necessary for an open and honest conversation.
- Is there a chance for the general public to provide feedback to the study team? Members of the general public are invited to attend the Town Hall meeting held during the study site visit. Additionally, members of the fire and/or EMS organizations are invited to attend and can provide additionally feedback during the Town Hall meeting.
- Can the local jurisdiction change the fire and EMS study report? The local jurisdiction cannot change the content(s) of the fire and EMS study report. The local jurisdiction will be asked to provide a technical review of the study, to ensure locality specific information is accurate.

- What happens after a fire and EMS study? Once the study team concludes the site visit and has developed its final fire and EMS study report, the Virginia Fire Services Board will review and approve the study. Then the study team's administrative liaison will work with the local jurisdiction to set a study presentation date. The study team will present the final fire and EMS study report to the local governing body that requested the study in an open meeting that the general public can attend. After the presentation, the Virginia Fire Services Board asks that the local governing body vote to accept receipt of the study report. Which means that the local governing body acknowledges that the study report was delivered, not that the local governing body agrees or disagrees with study recommendations. It is then up to the fire and EMS organizations, and the local governing body to determine if, when, and to what extent the study recommendations are implemented. Fire and EMS study recommendations should be used as a guide to assist the fire and EMS organizations and local governing body in improving service delivery to the citizens. As a reminder, the fire and EMS study recommendations should not be construed as legal advice or as a binding recommendation.
- What costs are associated with having a fire and EMS study completed for my jurisdiction? Fire and EMS studies are completed at no cost to localities
- Who do I contact about a fire and EMS study or for more information? For more information about fire and EMS studies, please contact:

Dear Assistance to Firefighters Grant Program Applicant:

On behalf of the Federal Emergency Management Agency's (FEMA) Grant Programs Directorate, I would like to thank you for applying for assistance under the Fiscal Year (FY) 2020 Assistance to Firefighters Grant (AFG) Program. Unfortunately, after careful consideration and review, we are unable to fund your application. We regret that the news could not be more positive.

As you are aware, the AFG Program is among the Department of Homeland Security's (DHS) and FEMA's most competitive grant programs. In FY 2020, FEMA received over 8,150 AFG Program applications, requesting more than $2 billion in federal assistance. The large number of applications received, and the finite amount of available funding, resulted in many commendable applicants not being funded and accentuates the highly competitive nature of this program. FEMA encourages your organization to apply for funding through the FY 2021 AFG Program.

Under the AFG Program, each activity within an application receives a detailed, multi-level review. First, each activity receives a preliminary score based on the applicant's answers to the application questions. The application questions are developed based on the AFG Program priorities, which are explained in the FY 2020 AFG Program Notice of Funding Opportunity (NOFO). The second phase of the process was a review by a panel of fire service peers. Using the information provided throughout your application, the panelists assigned scores to four elements of your application narrative: (1) clarity of the project description, (2) impact on daily operations, (3) demonstration of financial need, and (4) realization of cost benefit. Each of the two phases of the review carried equal weight, i.e., each phase was worth 50 percent of the activity's overall score.

Given the high number of applications received, the AFG Program is unable to provide a detailed account of how each individual application was rated in the competitive process, but your application did score highly enough to advance to the second phase. The peer review panel scores indicated that your application was generally good; however, there were areas for improvement. After awarding applicants with scores higher than the scores your application received, we regrettably do not have enough funding to make an award to your organization at this time. However, we offer webinars to assist you in understanding our decision and to help you in preparing future applications. For additional information and the webinar schedule, please visit <https://www.fema.gov/assistance-firefighters-grant>.

There are several other tools and resources available to help fire departments and volunteer interest organizations develop effective AFG Program grant applications. I encourage you to make use of these resources as you prepare your next grant request.

1. AFG Program Website (<https://www.fema.gov/assistance-firefighters-grant>). The AFG Program Website offers a wealth of resources, including:

- The AFG Program NOFO, which explains funding priorities and evaluation criteria
- Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)
- Narrative Self-Evaluation Tool
- AFG Program Application Checklist
- Get Ready Guides
- Online tutorials with key information about preparing grant requests
- AFG Program E-Mail Alerts (biweekly e-mail messages to the AFG Program mailing list), which provide important announcements about new application periods, upcoming workshops, and other AFG Program updates (to receive the AFG Program E-Mail Alerts, sign up on the AFG Program website)
- Recipient success stories

2. Toll-Free AFG Program Help Desk (1-866-274-0960 or firegrants@fema.dhs.gov). The AFG Program Help Desk answers questions from applicants by telephone and by e-mail. Between application periods, they field general questions about the AFG Program. During application periods, they provide technical assistance with the online application and answer questions about the AFG Program NOFO. If additional assistance is needed, the Help Desk staff can refer questions directly to subject matter specialists.

Your interest in the AFG Program reminds us that America's fire and emergency medical services organizations continue to have great need for support. FEMA and DHS will continue to work closely with and support the Nation's first responders and their vital work. Thank you again for your dedication and commitment.

Regards,

Director
Preparedness Grant Division
